PEAK PAINT OS THE APP THE CREW CARRY

One screen per section, in the order a painter actually taps them on a normal day.

PP-OS-2026

OUTLINE PROJECTS LTD

Three taps, once.

The phone stays signed in. A painter does this on day one and does not do it again unless they sign out.

1 · Open the app → Sign in

2 · Tap your own name

3 · Enter your PIN → your profile

The list is split in two. Management — Danny and anyone with full access — is the same phone app with nothing hidden and the office side reachable from it. Crew get jobs, H&S, clock and hazards, with no costs. Painters cannot see the Management option.

Your call, Danny: do you want PINs on every painter, or only the ones with costs visible?

Where the day starts.

Not a job list — the painter's own page. Hours this week, tasks you have set them, H&S, leave, notes and photos.

THE ORDER OF THE DAY

- 1 Start here at the top — if you have set them tasks it says how many and takes them straight there
- 2 If there are no tasks it points them at My jobs instead
- 3 Log any indirect time — travel, material pick-up, training
- 4 Pick the job they are working on
- 5 Clock on and sign the H&S before anything else

Your call: is the profile the right landing page, or would you rather they land on today's job?

Travel and pick-ups are ticks, not jobs.

Travel to a site over half an hour away, a Resene run first thing, a rained-off morning — tick it and it is logged against today. It does not clock them onto anything.

Ticked activities sit above the job list. The painter still has to pick a job below and clock onto it — indirect time and job time stay separate on the timesheet.

THE SIX

Travel · Training · Yard / workshop · Inclement weather · Material pick-up · Other

Your call: is that the right list, and should travel under 30 minutes be ticked at all?

No clock-on, no sign-on, no job.

Open a job and there are two steps and nothing else. Progress, photos, variations, materials and reporting stay locked until both are done. This is deliberate — every hour has a job against it and everyone on site has signed the SWMS.

Locked — step 2 waits for step 1

Clocked on — H&S now live

Both done — job unlocked

If there is no SSSP on the job yet the button reads Create & sign. Moving to a second site during the day clocks them off the first automatically and re-gates the new one.

Your call: is a hard lock right, or should a painter be able to look at a job without clocking on?

Progress, photos, extras.

Everything a painter does on site lands in HQ within seconds — no paperwork at the end of the week.

Update progress room by room

SWMS, sign-on and hazards

Request materials from site

Photos taken here show up on the job row on your dashboard, and against the job in Projects.

Your call: should painters be able to raise a variation themselves, or flag it for you to price?

Price a small job from the ute.

Same rates library as the office, same picker. Pick lines, type quantities, and it produces a quote you can hand over before you leave the driveway.

The quote goes back to HQ as a draft so nothing is priced twice and nothing gets lost between the ute and the office.

USE IT FOR

Repaints while you are already on site · add-ons the client asks about · anything under about $5k that does not need a full tender

Your call: who should be allowed to send a quick quote — you only, or foremen too?

The painter's own record.

Everything they need to check without asking the office.

Hours, from their own clock-ons

Tasks you set them

Rooster of the week

Leave and sick requests come to you from the same screen. More → Sign off site for today clocks a painter out and clears their H&S sign-on in one tap.

Your call: weekly or monthly on the Rooster award, and who picks the winner?
